

President's Welcome

Welcome to ABMA's 104th Annual Convention. It has been my pleasure to serve our Association in numerous capacities over the years, and for an organization that is in its second century of service to the industry. It is exciting to know that we are still strong, vibrant and relevant. Get ready for a great experience and thanks for attending!

I don't think a year ago anyone saw a virtual convention on our horizon, but here we are. We are committed to provide you with a wonderful opportunity to expand your "in organization" ABMA participation through a low cost virtual platform. We are also very excited to allow your organization all the participants you would like to share in the event and especially pleased to have your team participate in Face 2 Face Supplier meetings.

On the weeks leading up to the three day virtual event feel free to attend any of the various committee meetings as they are open to the membership and your input is welcome. Don't miss the All Divisional Meeting on Wednesday afternoon as a part of the General Session. During the Paul M Miller Welcome Reception you can network with friends, new members and others so everyone can get to know each other right away while having a great time competing for prizes and bragging rights. On Wednesday evening there will also be a private event for the ABMA Emerging Leaders group. Please contact HQ if you would like more information or to join in.

Thursday and Friday we showcase the Face 2 Face Suppliers Display, another "can't miss" opportunity where you will be able to meet with many of your current suppliers and many suppliers new to the Association.

On behalf of all of the Directors, I thank you for your support of ABMA. I trust that you will have ample opportunities for networking and I am sure you will enjoy your experience.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "D Scott Enchelmaier". The signature is fluid and cursive, written over a white background.

D Scott Enchelmaier
ABMA President